Weaver Cooke Launches Green Consulting Division

July 17, 2009 (GREENSBORO, North Carolina) – Weaver Cooke Construction, LLC announced today they have launched a new division of the company to provide sustainability consulting services. The division, called WC Sustainable Services, will provide a range of consulting services including sustainable business plans, energy audits, solar energy feasibility and planning, and administration services for the U.S. Green Building Council’s LEED (Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design) program.

“Over the past few years, Weaver Cooke has become an industry leader in sustainable construction. We created WC Sustainable Services in order to go beyond constructing green buildings, and share our knowledge, expertise and enthusiasm for how companies and organizations can ‘green’ their existing operations.” said Dan Estes, President of Weaver Cooke Construction.

Wendy Cockerham, LEED AP and Weaver Cooke’s Director of Sustainable Construction, will serve as the Division Manager for WC Sustainable Services.
